This was the first game that I bought. I had to play it after watching play throughs of it on YouTube and I've been enjoying it. Now that I've played through all the characters I thought of some things that they should do next even though they finished the final two characters. They need to make couples play through now. Because they told a lot of info about how the characters are doing after the storm. I like to know how Steph and Dina are loving together or Dan and Fred being parents, Dans idea of an amusement park or how Lexie is going to start a family with Zara.. Fun, but could use a larger online playerbase (not a problem if you have friends to play with). This game is difficult in my opinion...But I guess thats part of the fun!. Not worth the money. Too fiddly, and I got bored straight away. Would really like my money back... Pretty decent game for the price. It's legend of grimrock light and does it pretty damn well. It only takes about 4 hours to complete the game on normal and has a straightforward battle system. There are a lot of things hidden on walls so being aware of your surroundings helps a lot. A very basic and quick game which has a surprising amount of challenge outside of combat. Comparatively to other games at $5 on sale, it's below their quality. For a game that opens with a story, it's lacking after the initial opening.

Sometimes in this game, you know the game over on the next screen is inevitable no matter what you do. And that's pretty much the point.. Go buy it <3. Very nice set.. This is easily the kind of game that when you have a friend over and a spare controller, you just look at them for a moment, start up the game, and say "Don't ask any questions."

Now, let me explain. This game is not like other games at all. Yes, it is a fighter game like Smash Bros. or Brawlhalla, but not in the way you expect. It has a fairly similar concept to those games, except they put ragdoll physics in, and wow, these ragdoll physics make the game. Even the walk cycles remain bent to the ragdolls. This doesn't limit your control though, not at all, in fact. It only creates the hilarity in this game. In case you were wondering, you will laugh playing this game, especially with friends. The game is definitely made for local multiplayer, but it does feature online play. There is no singleplayer campaign, however.

However, in a 2D fighter, the combat has to be great. This game succeeds that in spades. Every punch you make has a huge weight behind it, as the color of the stick figure you hit flies out of them. However, the game isn't derived on punching and kicking combat. In fact, one of the main features of the game is it's wide variety of guns. Guns with huge knockback (both on yourself and the player you hit it with), guns that have amazing accuracy, and many many more. Most games like this usually have items like these that give advantages turned off, but this game's items are perfect. Each gun is very different from each other, and each has their own little mechanic that makes them stand out. Take the sniper rifle, that has a laser sight and can pretty much one hit kill anybody if you're able to make the bullet hit. Also take the minigun, a weapon that has a huge spread of bullets, but will send the person flying back in the opposite direction of where you're shooting it. You can even use it to fly. Now, you may be wondering: "It'd probably be hard to aim with ragdoll physics." It's not at all. The gun tracks where you're moving and when you move your mouse, and that goes for all attacks. It can lead to some pretty clutch moments with aim and the like.

The only big flaw about this game is it's large quantity of bugs. Bugs like maps loading incorrectly to where there's no floor, or the game not registering people being killed. A lot of the guns can make the game completely unplayable. However, you will mostly find those playing online, however some still show up in the local gamemode. Still, if you can get behind those times where the game just decides not to work for you, this is a very fun and silly game at heart. I give this game a solid 7/10. It likely won't be your most played game, but it's a nice distraction, especially if you got a buddy with you. "Do not ask questions", just grab a buddy and check it out if it sounds like you'd like it.. VN with beautiful arts and somewhat interesting story. Also the options given doesn't change much only couple of sentences, which is rather disappointing

For rating I'll say 6/10 could be better. well worth the money just please fix the path finding.... I'll recommend this if you're a fan of the genre. This may seem like a dumb advice, but here's my point :

You may really like it if you're a fan of the 2D sidescroller game, otherwise not so much. Why ? because this game, though a very good platformer, doesn't appeal to the regular gamer. It does write a long love-letter to old 2D platformer (and a very nice one, might I add), but won't be a general gaming experience you shouldn't miss.
